

Jean-Yves Barcelo is a French Civil Engineer born in 1955. He joined UN-Habitat in 1995 to support in-country preparatory process for the Habitat II Conference, the first worldwide inter-stakeholders consultative process conducted on urban development issues. He was then appointed Inter-regional adviser on urban and housing issues in 1997 to provide policy advises to Member States and substantive support to UN-Habitat regional and national offices for the development and implementation of technical cooperation project portfolio. He has more than 30 years of international experience in urban and housing policies and territorial management. He recently coordinated the consultative process for the preparation of the international guidelines on access to basic services for all adopted in 2009 by the UN General Assembly. Before joining the UN, he served in the French Ministries of Public Works and International Cooperation.