Mobilising the private capital needed to help bridge this gap will require targeted, co-operative efforts between the public and private sectors. The OECD Centre on Green Finance and Investment (CGFI) seeks to address this gap and recognises the key role of investors. A CGFI Investor Network is being established to bring together institutional investors, private equity funds, commercial banks, project developers and other investors to support global policy efforts and address market challenges in green and sustainable finance and investment. Investors in the Network will be kept abreast of the work and events of the Centre and be invited to share their perspectives and expertise with policymakers. They also will have opportunities to inform OECD analysis and programmes, and identify areas for collaboration with other investors and public sector actors. A key opportunity for investor engagement will be through the OECD’s newly launched Clean Energy Finance and Investment Mobilisation (CEFIM) Programme, which will work with five emerging economies, beginning with Indonesia and Colombia in 2019, to strengthen clean energy policies and unlock investment in renewables and energy efficiency. Investors in the Network will contribute to the global agenda in diverse ways through the Centre, including:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>COUNTRY-LEVEL POLICY DESIGN</th>
<th>INVESTMENT FACILITATION</th>
<th>POLICY DIALOGUES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Inform OECD policy analysis and recommendations to governments for strengthening policy frameworks and building pipelines of bankable projects.</td>
<td>Attract and facilitate investment on the ground through focused, in-depth, practical information-sharing with key investors, project developers and policy actors on opportunities and approaches to overcome barriers.</td>
<td>Connect investors and policymakers, through targeted, working-level dialogues, to discuss and develop approaches to strengthen policies on green finance and investment.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Upcoming activity Singapore, 6 June 2019</td>
<td>Upcoming activity Paris, 31 October 2019</td>
<td>Upcoming activity Santiago, December 2019</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OECD-SEB session on “Unlocking Private Capital for Clean Energy Investments in Asia” to gather a select group of investors to guide the development of the CEFIM Programme and identify priorities for the Network.</td>
<td>OECD-ADB joint event for selected participants to explore investment opportunities facilitated by the ASEAN Catalysing Green Finance Facility.</td>
<td>10th OECD Annual High-Level Breakfast Event on “Institutional Investors and the Low-Carbon Transition” organised by the OECD and the Institutional Investors group on Climate Change (IIGCC) on the margins of COP25.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The CGFI Investor Network will support the Centre’s four pillars of work:

- Strategies, policies and actions for investment in the low-carbon transition
- Resilience and adaptation
- Financing for green investment
- Tracking progress in green finance and investment

Recent investor-focused events of the Centre have included Integrating Climate Change into Institutional Investment (June 2018), the 9th Annual OECD High-Level Breakfast Event on Institutional Investors and the Low-Carbon Transition (December 2018), and Private Finance for Sustainable Development (January 2019).

In addition to the upcoming events noted in the figure above, future investor-focused events could cover topics such as sustainable finance taxonomies, investment channels for sustainable infrastructure, ESG investment, and blended-finance funds and facilities.

Participation

This message has been shared with all relevant stakeholders on the mailing list for the OECD Centre on Green Finance and Investment, and other stakeholders invited to upcoming events of the Centre. Note that while the members of the Network will not be made public, investors can make their participation public. If you do not wish to be a part of the Network, but would like to remain on the general mailing list for the Centre, please email: aayush.tandon@oecd.org.

For those who are keen to learn more about the Centre’s upcoming investor-focused activities, welcome to the CGFI Investor Network!

To help shape future events and activities, the Centre will outreach to a variety of investors and other stakeholders. Investors with focused proposals and ideas are invited to follow up with the contacts below. Investors are encouraged to consider sponsoring the work and activities of the Centre.

We look forward to your engagement with the Centre and to seeing you soon at upcoming events.

Contact: Robert Youngman (robert.youngman@oecd.org); Dirk Röttgers (dirk.rottgers@oecd.org); and Aayush Tandon (aayush.tandon@oecd.org).