WHY FIGHT FOREIGN BRIBERY?
The OECD Working Group on Bribery is leading global efforts to fight bribery of foreign public officials in international trade and investment. The fight against foreign bribery is a core shared value that unites all 43 Parties to the Anti-Bribery Convention.

The Parties’ commitment to this fight is grounded in the recognition that no government or market economy can function effectively if it is riddled by bribery. Corruption entails costs that no country can afford. Serious harm results when public officials take bribes, for example, when awarding contracts to foreign businesses in such areas as road construction, water infrastructure, medicines or electricity. In addition to the human suffering caused by inferior products and services, bribery derails the functioning of markets and undermines economic development.

WHAT IS THE ANTI-BRIBERY CONVENTION?
The Convention on Combating Bribery of Foreign Public Officials in International Business Transactions is a legally binding international agreement. Parties to the Convention agree to establish the bribery of foreign public officials as a criminal offence under their laws and to investigate, prosecute and sanction this offence.

The Anti-Bribery Convention is the first and only international anti-corruption instrument focused on the “supply side” of the bribery transaction – the person or entity offering, promising or giving a bribe.

COMBATING FOREIGN BRIBERY USING THE CONVENTION
Parties’ laws must hold both individuals and companies responsible for foreign bribery. This includes offers of bribes that are not accepted and offers made to officials of foreign state-owned enterprises. Moreover, bribery committed through an intermediary, such as a subsidiary or other agent – and bribes for the benefit of family members, political parties or another third party (e.g., a charity or company in which the official has an interest) – must also be made illegal.

Other commitments include: providing prompt legal assistance to other Parties to the Convention investigating foreign bribery allegations; denying tax deductibility of bribe payments; sanctioning false accounting to disguise bribe payments; making it an offence to launder the proceeds of foreign bribery; and imposing effective, proportionate and dissuasive sanctions for foreign bribery acts.

Parties also commit to ensure that projects they have financed, including through official development aid and officially supported export credits, are not tainted by foreign bribery and that adequate mechanisms are in place to prevent, detect and address bribery in projects that benefit from state funding.

The Anti-Bribery Convention creates a strong legal foundation for countries’ commitment to fight foreign bribery, and establishes tough and effective standards to guide their efforts going forward.
THE OECD WORKING GROUP ON BRIBERY monitors Parties’ compliance with the Convention and promotes better anti-bribery laws and enforcement. Its activities include:

18 YEARS OF PROMOTION AND MONITORING OF ANTI-BRIBERY LAWS AND ENFORCEMENT ACTIVITY, including, for almost a decade, meetings of law enforcement officials from the 43 Parties.

200+ MONITORING REPORTS covering the 43 Parties’ foreign bribery laws and enforcement practices and activities.

1450+ RECOMMENDATIONS FOR IMPROVING ANTI-BRIBERY LAW AND ENFORCEMENT Most recommendations have been fully or partially implemented. Those that are judged not to be fully implemented are subject to follow up by the OECD Working Group on Bribery.

HOW IS THE CONVENTION IMPLEMENTED?

Over the past 18 years, monitoring by the OECD Working Group on Bribery has established the Convention as the most rigorously enforced international anti-corruption instrument. However, the Convention can only be effective when all Parties implement it fully and adhere to its tough standards.

Parties to the Convention are subject to review by their peers, and OECD Working Group on Bribery experts serve as examiners in the peer review mechanism for other countries. All of the OECD Working Group on Bribery evaluation reports and recommendations are then made public on the OECD website.

The process motivates countries to ensure the highest level of compliance with the Convention and to take concrete action to fight foreign bribery and corruption.

The monitoring process is subject to specific agreed-upon principles. Not only are the reports made public but the process is compulsory for all Parties and includes meetings with non-government actors. The evaluated country has no right to veto the final report and recommendations.

The OECD Working Group on Bribery began the fourth phase of monitoring in 2016. Phase 4 focuses on enforcement and covers unresolved issues from prior reports, as well in-depth exploration of horizontal issues such as detection, company liability and co-operation and mutual legal assistance among Parties’ law enforcement officials.

CO-OPERATION AMONG GLOBAL LAW ENFORCEMENT COMMUNITIES

For the last ten years, law enforcement officials of the now 43 Parties have met twice a year in a confidential setting to share experiences and information on anti-foreign bribery enforcement. Practitioners discuss practical challenges encountered in investigating and prosecuting foreign bribery and share good practices. These regular law enforcement meetings of the OECD Working Group on Bribery have proven to be instrumental in fostering contacts between law enforcement officials and facilitating international co-operation in foreign bribery cases. This may help to explain, along with the Convention’s binding provisions for mutual legal assistance, why most successfully concluded foreign bribery cases involve Parties to the Convention.

“CORRUPTION PERMEATES—and facilitates—some of the most important global threats of our time, such as terrorism, climate change and the refugee crisis. It is vital that we ramp up our fight to eradicate corruption.”

EXPANDING THE GLOBAL ANTI-BRIBERY COMMUNITY

Anti-Corruption Network for Eastern Europe and Central Asia (ACN)
The ACN brings together national governments from 25 countries, as well as other international organisations, civil society and business representatives. Established in 1998, the ACN provides a regional forum for the promotion of anti-corruption reforms. The ACN conducts regular monitoring of anti-corruption reforms in nine countries in the region. It also hosts a regional law enforcement network and expert groups on corruption prevention in the public administration and in business.

Global Network of Law Enforcement Practitioners
In 2015 and 2017, the Global Network of Law Enforcement Practitioners against Corruption met in conjunction with the meetings of the OECD Working Group on Bribery and the ACN. The meetings were attended by law enforcement representatives from over 50 countries, including Parties to the Convention and law enforcement officials from Eastern Europe, Central Asia and Asia Pacific.

ADB/OECD Anti-Corruption Initiative for Asia-Pacific
Thirty-one member economies have committed to action against corruption: they have jointly developed the Anti-Corruption Action Plan for Asia and the Pacific and work together towards its implementation. The Action Plan sets out the goals and standards for sustainable safeguards against corruption in the economic, political and social spheres of the countries in the region. The initiative supports the member governments’ efforts by fostering policy dialogue, thematic reviews and stocktaking and regional seminars.

OECD/African Development Bank Initiative to Support Business Integrity and Anti-bribery Efforts
This initiative brings together African policy makers, businesses, regional and international organisations and aims to assist African countries in their fight against bribery of public officials in business transactions and to improve corporate integrity and accountability. It seeks to highlight and enhance the complementarities between the African Union Convention on Preventing and Combating Corruption, the UN Convention Against Corruption, and the Convention on Combating Bribery of Foreign Public Officials. The Initiative was launched in 2011 with the adoption of the Anti-Bribery and Business Integrity Course of Action, which sets out specific and concrete steps toward improved anti-bribery and business integrity efforts in the region.

OECD-Latin America Anti-Corruption Programme
This programme aims to strengthen implementation of anti-corruption conventions and promotes integrity in the South and Central American region. Under the programme, the OECD supports Latin American countries in state modernisation, preventing and fighting corruption, and fostering implementation of the United Nations Convention against Corruption, Inter-American Convention against Corruption and the Anti-Bribery Convention. The five Latin American Parties to the Anti-Bribery Convention – Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia and Mexico – form a bridge between the OECD and other countries in the region and help carry out the programme’s objectives.

Ukraine Anti-Corruption Project
In 2014, the OECD launched a country-specific project to support Ukraine in its anti-corruption agenda. The project aims to strengthen legal and institutional capacity to effectively detect, investigate and prosecute high-profile and complex corruption in Ukraine.
