

Nicolas Blancher

Mr. Blancher is a Deputy Division Chief in the Monetary and Capital Markets Department of the IMF. His recent work includes research and policy work on financial stability issues, including global asset allocation and risk transfer throughout financial systems and to the household sector. Mr. Blancher joined the IMF in 1996, to work in the Office of the Executive Director for France, and then in the Policy Development and Review Department. He started his career at Societe Générale, in charge of emerging market country-risk analyses. He obtained a Diplôme d'Ingenieur in 1987.