President of the Think Point Ltd. Consumer Education and Communications company (www.thinkpoint.pl) and the President of the Education Now! – Information Society Foundation, Warsaw (Poland) based non-profit foundation majoring in modern education and edutainment programs for the youth and adults, as well as the owner of a Internet portal promoting modern education programs and tools for the education sector (www.edunews.pl).

Developing the economic awareness and practical skills in the area of personal finance is important part of his activity. Previously he was the Head of the Economic Education Division of the Polish Central Bank (2002-2007), being responsible for strategic planning and implementation of the nationwide and international economic education and financial literacy projects addressed, among others, to schools, libraries, students, teachers, journalists, priests, judges, as well as, through the mass media, to general public opinion. He was also responsible for developing international cooperation of central banks in the field of economic education and financial literacy, and launched the extranet portal Economic Education Resource Bank (www.eerb.nbportal.pl), currently used by over 50 central banks from the world. He is an education innovator, developing unique programs which reach millions of people with the educational content via mass media, Internet, schools or direct actions. He is an independent, international consultant in the field of communications and consumer education programs, working for partners in different parts of the world.
