

Christiane Arndt holds a Master in International Business Studies from the University of Maastricht (The Netherlands) and a Master from Sciences Po in Paris (France). She is currently in her final year of the PhD programme at the Maastricht Graduate School of Governance. As part of the programme, she spent the last year at Harvard University. Christiane Arndt worked until 2006 at the OECD Development Centre where she authored, together with Charles Oman, the study "Uses and Abuses of Governance Indicators". The book helps both users and producers of governance indicators to understand the strengths and weaknesses of the most widely used indicators, analyses their widespread misuse and explains recent developments in the supply of governance indicators.

