

Mr. Pavel Vavra – brief note

Pavel Vavra joined the OECD in 2001. Currently he is an Agricultural Policy Analyst in the Agro-food Trade and Markets Division of the OECD's Trade and Agriculture Directorate. He is responsible for trade and market related analyses of agricultural commodities, in particular, milk and milk products. He is an author of the OECD study "Dairy Policy Reform and Trade Liberalisation" published in 2005. He has been also involved in the research agenda related to food economy, supply agrifood chains and vertical integration. Since 2006 he is a co-ordinator of the OECD-FAO Agricultural Outlook baselines and reports.

Prior to joining the OECD, Mr. Vavra worked as a researcher for the Centre for Agricultural, Food and Resource Economics at the University of Manchester and for the Trade Research Centre at Montana State University. Mr. Vavra has a PhD in agricultural economics from the University of Manchester and an MSc degree in applied economics from Montana State University.