

BRIEF NOTE: Mr. Wayne Jones

The OECD is one of the world's largest and most reliable sources of economic information and analysis. The Organization also provides a setting where governments compare policy experiences, seek answers to common problems, identify good practice and coordinate domestic and international policies. The 31 OECD member countries share expertise and exchanges views with more than 100 other countries and economies, from Brazil, China, and Russia to the least developed countries in Africa.

Wayne Jones is currently Head of the Agri-food Trade and Markets Division at the OECD, responsible for the annual medium-term agricultural outlook as well as analyses of related market, trade and policy issues.