Draft Programme

I. Rationale

The "Women entrepreneurship and social innovation" seminar aims to emphasize the double role that women entrepreneurs play in economic and social development. The objectives are to support public, private and non-governmental initiatives at municipal and regional levels, favourable to female entrepreneurship and to favour the exchange between OECD and CEI countries. This seminar is a working event and a tool for all participants to further built projects and networks.

As the topic of "women entrepreneurship" is very broad, this two day seminar proposes acquiring a better knowledge of innovative practices that have a significant economic and social impact in supporting women entrepreneurship. Three main themes are therefore proposed:

1. Innovative policies at municipal and regional level supporting women entrepreneurs
2. Innovative financial schemes and programmes targeting women entrepreneurs
3. Successful socially innovative women entrepreneurship initiatives

This seminar will also introduce as study methodology prepared by the LEED Programme on "The Dynamic Role of Women Entrepreneurs in Local Development", with the aim of leading a systematic analysis of women entrepreneurship in CEI countries.

II. Who?

The LEED (Local Economic and Employment Development Programme) of the OECD (Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development) organises the seminar in collaboration with the City of Ljubljana that offered to host this seminar, the Slovenian Ministry of Economy and the non-governmental organisation ZAVOD M.E.T.A which acts as a co-organiser.

The Central European Initiative-EBRD also supports this event as well as the new LEED OECD Centre for Central and Eastern Europe that opens 6 December 2003 in Trento, Italy.

The National Council of Republic of Slovenia, Small Business Development Centre and the Slovenian Chamber of Commerce and Industry also support the conference. The seminar will gather high level national, regional and municipal representatives, networks and associations of women entrepreneurs, international experts and decision makers from other private, public and non governmental organisations.

We target women entrepreneurs and initiatives that combine an economic and social approach, i.e. respond to a social or community building objective (health, education, environment, regeneration, interim entrepreneurs, business incubators adapted to women entrepreneurs' needs, asset building, insurances, child care, financing etc).

A selected number of journalists will be invited to participate to the seminar.

III. When?

The seminar will take place on 9 and 10 December 2003 in Ljubljana, Slovenia

IV. Why Slovenia?

Slovenia plays a leading role on the topic of women entrepreneurship and undertakes actions at national, municipal and non-governmental levels. Through their annual conference BRIDGES OF COOPERATION, not only Slovenian women but Eastern and Southern Europeans have been getting involved in raising their environment's awareness and promote women inclusion in the economic and social activities of their respective regions. The results of this work are reflected in exhibitions (such as CREATIVITY AND ENTREPRENEURSHIP), seminars (such as WOMEN WITH ENERGY, City of Ljubljana) as well as the active involvement in the World Association of Women Entrepreneurs, FCEM, and similar organizations throughout Europe.

Slovenia is a full member of the LEED Programme of the OECD and strongly supports activities on women entrepreneurship.

V. CEI-LEED Collaboration on Women Entrepreneurship

This seminar is a follow up to the 1999 Brijuni conference "Exchanging East-West experiences on Women Entrepreneurship" held in October 1999 in Brijuni, Croatia that had a major impact on participating transition countries and initiated a strong collaboration between the CEI and the LEED Programme (as well as the UNECE) on Women Entrepreneurship. This exchange has been followed up at each CEI Summit since 1999 and the network formed in Brijuni has been invited to all OECD events on this subject.

Four years later it is important to analyse the changes that have occurred in the region, face new challenges, formalise again the exchange with OECD countries and allow this network to meet and further develop.

VI. Twinning

This seminar is part of the OECD Bologna process and contributes to the preparation of the SME Ministerial to take place in 3-5 June 2004 in Istanbul, Turkey, where women entrepreneurship is a key topic on the ministerial agenda.

Our event is twinned with the conference organised by the Forum for Women Entrepreneurs (FWE) "Investing in successful women entrepreneurs USA/Europe", 21 Nov. 2003 Paris, France (www.investinentrepreneurs.org)
