

STEPHEN CRESPI

Stephen Crespi (British), had an initial training in Chemistry and Research experience in the Pharmaceutical and Food Industries and became a qualified patent agent in 1958. He has worked in private practice, in industrial patent departments and in the public sector, where he was Patents Controller of the British Technology Group (NRDC) from 1976 to 1988.

Stephen now practises as a UK and European patent attorney and as a Consultant to Universities, to patent attorney firms and to the private sector including BTG. He has assisted the OECD in various Biotechnology studies on intellectual property, the European Commission on the EU Directive on the Legal Protection of Biotechnological Inventions, and the Council of Europe and EU Working Groups on Bioethical Aspects of Biotechnology in the AgroFood Sector.