

OECD COP21 Session – Equity impacts of carbon pricing and subsidy removal – 8 December 2015 – Speakers CVs

David Bradbury, Head of Division, OECD Centre for Tax Policy and Administration

David Bradbury is the Head of the Tax Policy and Statistics Division of the Centre for Tax Policy and Administration at the OECD, where he leads a team of economists, lawyers and statisticians. Prior to joining the OECD, David was a lawyer, a Member of the House of Representatives in the Australian Parliament, and a Minister in the Australian Government.

Thomas Becker, Head, Social Policies and Publications, Caritas Germany

Thomas Becker (58) studied Biology, Philosophy and Theology. Special interests: gaps and links between science and religion. Since 2005 Head of department “Social Policy and Publications” in the headquarter of Caritas Germany. The main themes during these recent years: the future of the social system in Germany, poverty, unemployment, European integration and the quality of social services.

Lucas Chancel, Co-ordinator of the World Inequality Report, Paris School of Economics

Lucas Chancel is co-ordinator of the world inequality report at the Paris School of Economics, research fellow at the Institute of Sustainable Development and International Relations and lecturer at Sciences Po School of Public Affairs. His research focuses on the interactions between inequality and sustainability.

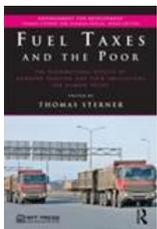

Eduardo Camero Godínez, Head, Non-Tax Revenue Policy, Mexican Ministry of Finance

Eduardo Camero Godínez has more than 16 years of experience in the analysis and design of public policies, particularly in the energy sector, most recently in the Finance Ministry. He was in charge of the design and implementation of the carbon tax and the excise-tax regime for gasoline and diesel.

Rajasree Ray, Additional Economic Adviser, Indian Ministry of Finance

Rajasree Ray is presently working as Additional Economic Adviser in Department of Economic Affairs, Ministry of Finance. In her present assignment, she deals with issues related to Climate Change Finance. She has been intimately involved with the setting up of the Green Climate Fund (GCF). She is currently a member of the Standing Committee on Finance established under the UNFCCC.

Thomas Sterner, Professor, University of Gothenburg and Collège de France

Thomas Sterner is a Professor of Environmental Economics at the University of Gothenburg and at Collège de France. He has published a dozen books and more than a hundred journal articles and is well known for his expertise on a range of topics including fuel taxation.

Ronald Steenblik, Senior Trade Policy Analyst, OECD Trade and Agriculture Directorate

Ronald Steenblik is a Senior Trade Policy Analyst, in the Trade and Agriculture Directorate of the OECD. He currently heads the team that is responsible for the OECD's inventory of support to fossil-fuel production and consumption in OECD countries, and for studying issues at the nexus of trade and the environment.