Day 1: Monday, December 12

09:30 - 09:45: Welcome and Overview of Programme: Dr. Hans J. Blommestein, Co-ordinator OECD Working Party on Debt Management & Head of Emerging Financial Markets Programme, OECD

Session 1 (9:45- 13:00)

“Recent trends and developments on public debt management in emerging markets”

This session, organised jointly with the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and World Bank, focuses on “Recent trends and developments in public debt management in emerging markets“. The topic will be introduced by speakers from the IMF and World Bank by indicating key problems and issues from a global perspective. This will be followed by a panel discussion with debt managers from emerging markets. The panel will comment on the introductory overview by making references to the developments in their respective jurisdictions. The panel discussion is followed by a general discussion involving also other debt managers. The moderator of the session will summarise the discussion in the form of policy conclusions/recommendations.

09:45 – 10: 45: Introductory Overview (“Trends and developments in debt management in emerging markets from a global perspective”)

Mr. Udaibir Das (Division Chief, Exchange Regime and Debt & Reserve Management Division, IMF),

13:00 – 14:30: Lunch Break

Session 2: (14:30-18:00) “Cash management”

The emphasis in this session is on exploring and discussing the possibilities of models or prototypes for cash management. To that end, an overview will be given of OECD practices based on a recent survey by the OECD Working Party on Public Debt Management. An outline will be given of some models or common frameworks (or prototypes) distilled from the survey results. The members from panel I will give their views on these models or prototypes based on the practices in their respective jurisdictions. Accordingly, they will offer their views on these proto-types or models and also indicate which model or proto-type corresponds best to their country case. During the first general round of discussions other debt managers are invited to give their views whether and to what extent the suggested proto-types or models can serve as guidance for reforming or designing cash management systems. The members of panel II are invited to address (1) the key policy issue whether, and to what extent, the stage of market development plays a role in designing cash management systems and (2) to what extent the suggested cash management models are helpful in the introduction of modern cash management systems. During the final general discussion other debt managers are invited to contribute to the discussion of these key policy issues.

14:30 – 15:00: Dr. Hans Blommestein (OECD) and Mr. Greg Horman (New Zealand Debt Management Office): “An overview of cash management in OECD countries and suggested models of cash management”

Day 2: Tuesday, December 13

Session 3: (09:00-13:00) “Performance Management”

The OECD Working Party on Public Debt Management recently discussed a framework with principles for performance management to be used by debt managers. This session will discuss to what extent these principles can be interpreted as best practices. The session will also assess how useful these principles (or best practices) are as policy guidance in relation to a number of existing performance management systems (with presentations by France and Sweden). The final key policy issue is whether, and to what extent, the stage of market development plays a role in designing or using a framework with principles for performance management (with presentations by Hungary and Israel). During the general discussion other debt managers are invited to contribute to the discussion of these key policy issues.
