Edgar E.
Gutiérrez-Espeleta

Former Minister of Environment and Energy
Costa Rica

Edgar E. Gutierrez-Espeleta, a Costa Rican by birth, obtained his B. Sc. in Statistics from the University of Costa Rica, and his M. Sc. and Ph. D. in Forest Biometry from Iowa State University, USA. He taught at University of Costa Rica (UCR) from 1982 until 2014 when he retired as a full professor. He founded, in 1997, the Development Observatory, a research unit at UCR dealing with sustainable development issues particularly, the development of indicators, indices and ways to present data for decision makers, and was its Director until 2005 when he became Chair of the School of Statistics at the same university. He has written more than 40 scientific articles in national and international peer reviewed journals and a book on Statistical Methods. Prof. Gutierrez-Espeleta collaborated with UNEP GEO projects in Latin America and the Caribbean and lead the first two GEO LACs and the regional environmental data portal to support the Forum of Ministers of Environment of Latin America and Caribbean, among others. He has lead projects, besides UNEP, for UNDP, IDB and UNSD. He was Minister of Environment and Energy for Costa Rica from 2014 to 2018. He was also the President of the Second and Third United Nations Environment Assembly in 2016 and 2017.
