

July 2013

Preliminary estimates for Q1 2013 show that FDI activity increased for the second consecutive quarter, with global FDI flows up by 12% (to USD 355 billion) from the previous quarter. In 2012 as a whole, global FDI flows declined by 18% (to USD 1.35 trillion). The increase in Q1 2013 is mostly due to investments by non-OECD G20 members (which multiplied by 2.5 from the previous quarter), in particular from Russia where a very large deal brought about a seven-fold rise in FDI outflows (to USD 56 billion)¹. In the OECD area, FDI outflows remained stable at USD 219 billion while inflows rose by 41% (to USD 169 billion).

In Q1 2013, OECD countries accounted for 61% of global FDI outflows and remained comparable to the previous quarter (at USD 219 billion). Investment by non-OECD G20 countries more than doubled, from USD 34 billion to USD 83 billion, driven by investment from Russia. FDI outflows from Russia were significantly boosted by the TNK-BP/Rosneft deal involving the British Virgin Islands². In this context, Russia recorded its highest-ever level of FDI outflows (USD 56 billion) and ranks as the second largest investor worldwide in Q1 2013, after the United States (USD 88 billion) and before Germany (USD 25 billion) and Japan (USD 22 billion). FDI outflows from Germany more than tripled, while investment from Japan and the United States decreased by 34% and 7%, respectively. France and the United Kingdom recorded negative investment outflows (USD -24 billion and USD -0.4 billion respectively), due to disinvestments in equity and/or reimbursements of intercompany debt.

In Q1 2013, four countries concentrated 37% of global FDI inflows. China attracted the lion's share (USD 53 billion, or 15% of total) followed by Russia (USD 29 billion), the United Kingdom (USD 25 billion) and the United States (USD 23 billion). As noted in the case of FDI outflows, FDI inflows in Russia were significantly affected by the financial complexity of TNK-BP/Rosneft deal.

In the OECD area, FDI inflows increased by 41% compared to the previous quarter, representing 48% of global FDI inflows: FDI inflows in the United Kingdom almost tripled (from USD 10 billion to USD 25 billion), while Belgium and Luxembourg recovered from significant disinvestments observed in the last quarter of 2012. However, this development in the OECD area was partly offset by large FDI inflows decreases in Australia (from USD 21 billion to USD 8 billion) and the United States (from USD 42 billion to USD 23 billion), which were previously among major destinations. France recorded negative FDI inflows due to reimbursement of intercompany debt.

Among non-OECD countries, Indonesia, Brazil and China received between 25% and 40% less FDI than in the previous quarter, while in India inflows rose by 65% (to USD 7 billion). South Africa recovered from disinvestments (to USD 1.4 billion) and Argentina maintained the same level (USD 2.6 billion). Saudi Arabia received USD 3 billion in the last quarter of 2012.

Definitions

Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) is a category of investment that reflects the objective of establishing a lasting interest by a resident enterprise in one economy (direct investor) in an enterprise (direct investment enterprise) that is resident in an economy other than that of the direct investor. The lasting interest implies the existence of a long-term relationship between the direct investor and the direct investment enterprise and a significant degree of influence (not necessarily control) on the management of the enterprise. The direct or indirect ownership of 10% or more of the voting power of an enterprise resident in one economy by an investor resident in another economy is the statistical evidence of such a relationship.

FDI statistics are on a directional basis (inward or outward) and relate to FDI flows, FDI positions (stocks) and FDI income. Outward investments are cross-border investments by direct investors resident in the reporting country while inward investments are investments by non-resident investors in the reporting country.

FDI flows are cross-border financial transactions within a given period (e.g. year, quarter) between affiliated enterprises that are in a direct investment relationship. FDI positions relate to the stock of investments at a given point in time (e.g. end of year, end of quarter). FDI flows and positions include equity (10% or more voting shares), reinvestment of earnings and inter-company debt. FDI income is the return on direct investment positions of equity (dividends and reinvested earnings) and debt (interest).
