

Patrik KOVACS is an international businessman and economic diplomat, who has been globally active for more than a decade in business and social development. He is Founder and President of the Young Entrepreneurs Association of Hungary (FIVOSZ) and Co-President of the National Entrepreneurs and Employers Organization (VOSZ). He is one of the most demanded experts in the field of youth entrepreneurship development and related governmental policies and programs working on national, EU and global level as well. As a leader of the largest young entrepreneurs organisation of the European Union he is actively building bridges between young businessmen in Europe and the rest of the world. He is seating in the board of various business organisations with active involvement in the World Economic Forum, World Bank, EuCham and European Commission. Since early 2018 he serves as Vice president of the SME&Entrepreneurship Taskforce of OECD BIAC.