

Public Consultation in Rule-Making

Tunis, 30 May 2011

Regulatory Policy Division, Public
Governance and Territorial
Development Directorate, OECD

Public consultation in developing draft primary laws and subordinate regulations 2005 and 2008

Characteristics of formal consultation processes used by central governments

2008

Notes: Data presented for the 30 OECD member countries and the European Union.

The sample includes 31 jurisdictions for 2008. Results have been adjusted for 26 countries following the results of a peer review process. Results have been partly adjusted for 26 countries following the early results of a peer review process as of May 5 2009. Some further adjustments will be undertaken. Final results will be circulated in a new draft.

Source: OECD Regulatory Management Systems' Indicators Survey 2008, www.oecd.org/regreform/indicators.

Why consult the public?

Legitimacy

Credibility

Confidence

Added value

Transparency

Alienation and connectivity

Regulatory literacy

Managing conflict

Increased compliance

Social cohesion