

Table of Contents

Addressing the Present, Preparing the Future	9
Part I. International Migration and the Economic Crisis: Understanding the Links and Shaping Policy Responses	11
Introduction	12
Summary and recommendations	13
1. Labour market outcomes of immigrants during the economic crisis	14
2. Impact of the economic crisis on migration flows and policy responses	26
3. Medium and long-term consequences of the economic crisis	44
4. Impact of the crisis on migration: the perspective of origin countries	54
Conclusions	63
Notes	65
References	67
Annex I.A1. Quarterly Employment and Unemployment Rate (15-64 years old) by Place of Birth in Selected OECD Countries, 2007-2008	71
Annex I.A2. Sectoral Distribution of Foreign-born Employment (15-64 years old), 2007	73
Annex I.A3. Sensitivity Index to the Business Cycle	74
Annex I.A4. Distribution of Foreign-born and Native-born Employment by Industry in November 2007, Observed Value and Counterfactual Variation of Foreign-born Employment between November 2007 and November 2008, United States	75
Part II. Workers Crossing Borders: A Road-map for Managing Labour Migration	77
Summary and recommendations	78
1. Introduction	83
2. Labour Migration: A Historical Overview	93
3. Irregular Migration	119
4. A Framework for a Labour Migration Regime	133
5. The Issue of Temporary Versus Permanent Migration	155
6. Specificities in Managing Highly-skilled Migration	161
7. Ensuring the Integration of Immigrants and their Children	177
8. Migration and Development	185
9. Summary and Conclusions	201
References	217

Boxes

I.1. The role of employment distribution by industry in immigrant employment changes in the United States (November 2007 – November 2008)	22
I.2. Illegal employment of foreigners during an economic crisis	25
I.3. Immigration and the Great Depression in the United States	29
I.4. Demand for H-1B visas and the burst of the IT bubble in 2001	35
I.5. The New Swedish Labour Migration Policy	39
I.6. Free movement: EU enlargement and the priority given to EU citizens	42
I.7. The 1970s crises	47
I.8. The 1997 Asian financial crisis	50
I.9. The housing bubble and immigrants: Home ownership and negative equity	58
I.10. Returns to enlargement countries in the wake of the economic crisis	60
II.1. Concepts underlying international migration movements	95
II.2. Highly-skilled migrants in Denmark and Norway	103
II.3. Are immigrants taking jobs for which there are not enough native workers?	127
II.4. Regularisations: Rewarding illegality or a necessary evil?	130
II.5. The establishment of a shortage list for the United Kingdom	137
II.6. Auctioning work permits	139
II.7. The Spanish system for recruitment in the country of origin	148
II.8. Workplace enforcement measures planned (2009) in the European Union	152
II.9. Attracting and retaining the very highly skilled	163
II.10. Attracting talent to local areas	167
II.11. Programmes to assist highly-skilled immigrants to make the transition into employment	171
II.12. Student enrolment and stay	174
II.13. Migration policy and screening of low-educated migrants	179

Tables

I.1. Share of different types of employment in total employment by place of birth (15-64 years old), 2007	23
I.2. Distribution of employed immigrants by duration of stay in selected OECD countries, 2007	26
I.3. Percent change in real GDP in emerging and developing economies, by major regions or countries, 2006-2008 and projections for 2009	55
II.1. Expected size of the 20-24 youth cohort without migration, 2005-2025	85
II.2. The immigrant share of employment, overall and in low-skilled occupations, 2007	88
II.3. Employment-to-population ratios of recent immigrants and native-born persons 15-64, 2007	90
II.4. The educational attainment of native-born persons and of non-OECD immigrants 25-44, 2006	97
II.5. Inflows of temporary migrant workers, selected OECD countries, 2006	106
II.6. Employment-population ratios of persons 15-64, by sex and region of birth, excluding full-time students, 2007	108

II.7. Differences in employment-to-population ratios between the foreign-born and the native-born, persons 15-64, by educational attainment, 2007	109
II.8. Differences in PISA mathematics scores between children of immigrants and children of native-born, by birth status of children and highest parental education level, 2003.	113
II.9. Differences between PISA mathematics scores of children of immigrants and children of native-born and magnitude of effects due to specified background factors, by birth status of children, 2003	114
II.10. Estimates of irregular migrant populations in selected OECD countries, various years	121
II.11. Visas granted for tourism, business, family visits and transit, selected OECD countries, 2007.	123
II.12. Factors associated with the share of employment in a given year accounted for by immigrants who entered over the recent period, by occupation, selected EU countries and the United States.	128
II.13. Expected work-permit processing times, selected OECD countries, 2008.	129
II.14. International student enrolment (2006) and simulation of student migration assuming an enrolment of 5 international students per 1 000 population and current Australian stay rates	175
II.15. Educational levels of immigrants in occupations of different skill levels, southern Europe (2006) and the United States (2007).	180
II.16. Remittance flows to developing countries, 2002-2008 (USD billion)	188
II.17. Emigration rates of the highly qualified to OECD countries, ca 2000	190
II.18a. Concentration of migration movements to OECD countries, 2001.	193
II.18b. Countries with expatriation rates to OECD countries greater than 5%, 2001	193
II.19. Educational attainment of recent immigrants to southern Europe vs. attainment levels in origin countries, 2006	195

Figures

I.1. Immigrants' share in net job creation, 1997-2007 and 2003-2007	15
I.2. Unemployment rates in selected OECD countries	16
I.3. Employment and unemployment rates of the foreign-born in Spain, the United Kingdom and the United States.	18
I.4. Non-Irish people on the Live Register by month and nationality, 2004-2009	19
I.5. Distribution of native-born and recent immigrants (less than 10 years of residence) employment by sector sensitivity to the business cycle in selected OECD countries, 2007	21
I.6. Net migration rate and the business cycle in selected OECD countries, 1960-2007	28
I.7. Immigration and economic growth in the United States, 1900-1988.	29
I.8. International migration from Mexico, by quarter, 2006-2008	32
I.9. First time applicants to the Worker Registration Scheme, United Kingdom, May 2004 to December 2008.	32
I.10. New registrations of citizens from selected new EU member countries with the Irish social security system, 2006-2009	33

I.11. The IT bubble in the United States: H-1B initial employment petitions approved and quota, employment growth in computer services and the NASDAQ Index, 1995-2006	35
I.12. Composite Leading Indicator (amplitude adjusted), OECD and six major non-member countries.	44
I.13. Entries under family reunion and permanent labour immigration in France, 1963-1999	47
I.14. Average annual employment earnings by immigrant class, by landing year and tax year, Canada, 1981-2004	52
I.15. Real GDP growth, 1970-2008 and projections 2009-2010	55
I.16. Real exchange rate of the Mexican peso per unit US dollar, January 2003 to February 2009.	61
I.17. Workers remittances to Mexico, January 2004 to February 2009	62
I.18. Growth of remittance flows from Spain, March 2003 to December 2008	62
II.1. Size of the youth and retiring cohorts, OECD countries (excluding Mexico and Turkey), 1950-2050	84
II.2. Net change in the working-age population over the period 2005-2020, at 2001-2005 net migration levels	87
II.3. Net migration rates, traditional immigration and emigration OECD countries, 1956-2006.	94
II.4. Legal permanent-type international immigrant flows by category of entry, 2002-2006	98
II.5. Percent of mothers in each educational attainment level, by immigrant status of children, selected OECD countries, PISA 2003	112
II.6. Percent of youth at each mathematics proficiency level, by immigrant status, selected OECD countries, PISA 2003	113
II.7. Employment-population ratios of native-born (NB) and foreign-born (FB) persons, by age and educational attainment, northern European countries, 2006	181

This book has...

StatLinks

A service that delivers Excel® files from the printed page!

Look for the StatLinks at the bottom right-hand corner of the tables or graphs in this book. To download the matching Excel® spreadsheet, just type the link into your Internet browser, starting with the <http://dx.doi.org> prefix.

If you're reading the PDF e-book edition, and your PC is connected to the Internet, simply click on the link. You'll find StatLinks appearing in more OECD books.