

NEW APPROACHES TO INTERGOVERNMENTAL RESILIENCE

Organised by OECD, EC-JRC and NIST

13 October 2017 – CH320, Chateau de la Muette, OECD

DRAFT AGENDA

Governments worldwide increasingly realise that the systemic threats afflicting modern societies, such as natural hazards, ageing population, and global migration, are compounded by their potential to disrupt interconnected cyber, information, societal, and infrastructural systems with lasting consequences. The OECD, Joint Research Centre of the European Commission (EC-JRC) and the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) have agreed to work together in a cooperative effort to learn from each other, share resources, and complement each other's activities. This technical-level meeting aims to reach consensus on a project plan to develop an Inter-governmental Approach to Resilience.
