OECD Economic Outlook No. 71 - The OECD's latest economic analysis and projections. Available in English, French and German on the OECD's password-protected website at 11 a.m. Paris time (9 a.m. GMT) on Thursday 25 April 2002, for immediate release.

The OECD’s Chief Economist, Ignazio Visco, will present the Outlook at a media briefing at OECD headquarters in Paris at 11 a.m. on 25 April.

Mr Visco will also present a summary of the OECD’s latest work into the economic impact of terrorism, one of the topics to be discussed at the OECD Forum 2002 in Paris on 13-15 May and the OECD Council Meeting at Ministerial Level on 15-16 May.

Separate briefings on the Economic Outlook will be held with OECD economists on 25 April as follows:

OECD Centre Tokyo at 5 p.m. local time (8 a.m. GMT), Nippon Press Centre Building, 2-2-1 Uchisaiwai-cho, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo, Japan
OECD Centre Berlin (via video-link with Paris), at 10 a.m. local time (8 a.m. GMT), Albrechtstrasse 9, Berlin-Mitte, Germany
National Press Club, Washington at 10 a.m. local time (2 p.m. GMT), 529 14th Street NW, Washington D.C., USA.
OECD Centre Mexico (via video-link with Paris), at 10 a.m local time (3 p.m. GMT), Av. Presidente Mazaryk 526, Colonia: Polanco, Mexico D.F.

Practical information

Journalists will be allowed advance access, on request, to an electronic version of the Economic Outlook by e-mail under embargo 4 hours ahead of release time. The text will be sent by e-mail on request only. Requests to receive the text by e-mail under embargo or to obtain a password to access the website should be sent by fax or e-mail to Nicole Le Vourch (nicole.levourch@oecd.org) in the Media Relations Division (fax [33] 1 45 24 80 03). Printed copies of the Economic Outlook will be mailed to journalists that request them on the day of publication.

Journalists unable to attend the Paris briefing can listen in by dialling [33] 1 56 78 90 57 (to hear the proceedings in English) or [33] 1 56 78 89 92 (to hear in the speaker’s original language).