

Thomas Andersson

Thomas Andersson is president of Jönköping University, one out of three main private universities in Sweden, which includes Jönköping International Business School, Jönköping Engineering School, Jönköping Health School, and Jönköping School for Teaching and Communication. He is also president of the board for the International Organisation for Knowledge Economy and Enterprise Development (IKED), vice president of the International Network for Small and Medium-Sized Enterprises (INSME), and serves on the International Advisory Committee of the Competitiveness Institute and on the International Advisory Board of the World Knowledge Forum.

In recent years, Thomas Andersson was chairman of the Innovation Policy Expert group appointed by the Swedish government to review the Swedish growth record, and senior advisor to the Swedish Agency for Innovation Systems (VINNOVA). He further served as secretary of the Ministers' of Finance project on "the Nordic Countries and the New Economy" under the aegis of the Nordic Council of Ministers, and on the International Advisory Board of Umeå School of Business and Economics.

From 1996 to 2001, Thomas Andersson was deputy director for Science, Technology and Industry at the OECD. Three divisions of that directorate fell under his responsibility - the Industry Division, the Division for Economic and Statistical Analysis and the Division for Transport. He also coordinated horizontal OECD-wide projects, notably the technology part of the OECD Jobs Study, the OECD Growth Study and work with the World Bank on building knowledge-based economies.

Prior to the OECD, Thomas Andersson was assistant under-secretary and head of the Structural Policy Secretariat in the Swedish Ministry of Industry and Commerce. During these years, he represented Sweden in the European Commission's meetings for Director Generals for Industry. Previously, he headed the international research programme of the Industrial Institute for Economic and Social Research, Stockholm (IUI).

Thomas Andersson was appointed associate professor at the Stockholm School of Economics in 1993 and is currently full professor in International Economics and Industrial Organisation at Jönköping International Business School. He has published a large number of books and articles and has been a visiting fellow at Harvard University, Bank of Japan, Hitotsubashi University and the University of Sao Paulo.