

Jane Atterton
Manager and Policy Researcher
Scotland Rural College

Dr Jane Atterton is Manager and Policy Researcher in the Rural Policy Centre at Scotland's Rural College (SRUC). Jane has been researching rural and regional development issues for nearly 20 years, working for both academic and policy organisations across the UK. Her current role involves managing a range of research-policy knowledge exchange activities and carrying out research on a variety of projects, including the Scottish Government Strategic Research Programme 2016-21, work on rural businesses' digital connectivity funded by Amazon, and evaluating a rural enterprise funding stream for Scottish and Southern Energy (SSE). Jane's main areas of interest are rural economies and businesses, rural policies and the policy-making process, and rural community change.
