The average tax-to-GDP ratio for the 30 African countries participating has plateaued in recent years.

Tax-to-GDP ratios varied widely in 2018 from over 29% to around 7%.

The average tax-to-GDP ratio in Africa remains below the averages in Latin America and the Caribbean (LAC) and in the OECD.

Average non-tax revenues as a percentage of GDP have declined between 2010 and 2018 from 8.3% to 6.5%.
