LEED Programme

The OECD Programme on Local Economic and Employment Development (LEED) identifies, analyses and disseminates innovative ideas relating to local development, governance and the social economy. Based on the voluntary participation of countries, its programme of work provides a large measure of operational flexibility.

The LEED Programme is part of the Centre for Entrepreneurship, SMEs and Local Development, collaborating closely with the Working Party on SMEs and carrying out horizontal work with many other services of the OECD.

OECD LEED Trento Centre for Local Development

On 11th June 2003, the OECD Council decided to establish, in co-operation with the Italian Government and the Autonomous Province of Trento, an OECD LEED Trento Centre for Local Development. The mission of the Centre is to build capacities in OECD member and non-member countries, with a focus on Central, Eastern and South-Eastern European Countries.

The Centre will build on the LEED Programme's longstanding commitment to provide assistance in the design, implementation and assessment of local development strategies and on its expertise on local governance, entrepreneurship and social inclusion.
