'The Life Cycle Approach' Education

'THE LIFE CYCLE APPROACH' – PROMOTING LIFE LONG LEARNING

Conclusions

- Partnerships can respond quickly to economic and social change
- Partnership approach is essentially a locally-based anti-poverty strategy
- Outcomes are a result of groups of organisations working together to achieve a common aim & the creation of the neutral space encourage diverse organisations to work in collaboration
- The pursuit of a 'Life Cycle Approach' supports a locally-based anti-poverty strategy approach towards education, training and employment
- Partnerships clearly focus on the development of tailored solutions to individuals & community needs
