<td>[ ] True, [ ] False</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Only the first statement is true

Question level

At level 3 students can apply their understanding of commonly used financial concepts, terms and products to situations that are relevant to them. They begin to consider the consequences of financial decisions and they can make simple financial plans in familiar contexts. They can make straightforward interpretations of a range of financial documents and can apply a range of basic numerical operations, including calculating percentages. They can choose the numerical operations needed to solve routine problems in relatively common financial literacy contexts, such as budget calculations.

Nature of the task

Analyse information in a financial context by considering the information in a line graph about an investment product. The graph shows how the price of shares has changed over a year. The first part of the question assesses a student’s understanding that shares should be bought when the price is low. The second part of the question assesses whether students can correctly identify the increase in share prices and calculate the percentage change over time.

The context is individual. The question belongs to the risk and reward content category because it involves the ability to identify ways of managing, balancing and covering risks, and an understanding of the potential for financial gains or losses across a range of financial contexts.

Financial literacy process

The process in analysing information in a financial context because it includes interpreting, comparing and contrasting, synthesising, and extrapolating from information that is provided, and it involves recognising something that is not explicit.

FINANCIAL LITERACY QUESTION (LEVEL 4) THE CORRECT ANSWER IS

(B) 2 500

Question level
At level 4 students can apply their understanding of less common financial concepts and terms to contexts that will be relevant to them as they move towards adulthood, such as bank account management and compound interest in savings products. They can interpret and evaluate a range of detailed financial documents, such as bank statements, and explain the functions of less commonly used financial products. They can make financial decisions taking into account longer-term consequences, such as understanding the overall cost implication of paying back a loan over a longer period, and they can solve routine problems in less common financial contexts.

Nature of the task
Identify the net salary on a pay slip. The correct answer requires an understanding of the difference between gross and net pay, that is, the difference between pay before and after any deductions have been made (such as deductions for health care or tax). Calculations are not required in this item.

The context is education and work. The question belongs to the money and transactions content category because it involves awareness of the different forms and purposes of money and handling simple monetary transactions such as everyday payments.

Financial literacy process
The process is identify financial information because the individual has to search and access sources of financial information, and identify or recognise its relevance.
