¹ Full members are public institutions with an active role in the work of the INFE. They have access to all documents developed by the INFE (including confidential ones); can attend the bi-annual Technical Committee meetings and fully participate in the development of INFE work; can apply for membership and participate in the INFE Advisory Board and Working Groups; and are invited in priority to all OECD/INFE events on financial literacy.

Regular members are public institutions which want to be informed about INFE activities, but do not wish to play an active role and financially contribute to the INFE.

Click here to apply for OECD/INFE full or regular membership, or contact SecretariatINFE@oecd.org to upgrade to full membership.

² The participation in the INFE of relevant international organisations with interest and expertise in financial education is important to ensure global coordination of issues and activities on financial education; to develop synergies and to avoid duplication of work and resources.
