

Shaun Mundy is a consultant, specialising in financial capability. Until September 2007, he had been the Head of Financial Capability at the UK's Financial Services Authority, where his responsibilities included leading the development and implementation of the UK's national strategy on financial capability. Shaun had previously held a number of other senior positions at the FSA and at predecessor financial services regulators. His earlier career had been spent at the Home Office and the Cabinet Office. Shaun has an MA in Economics and Politics and a Diploma in Criminology, both from Emmanuel College, Cambridge.