Towards a more social Europe – the role for education

The European Pillar of Social Rights – cross-cutting social priorities across all EU policies

1. Education, training and life-long learning

Everyone has the right to quality and inclusive education, training and life-long learning in order to maintain and acquire skills that enable them to participate fully in society and manage successfully transitions in the labour market.

Inclusive education – a practice-driven approach

"Inclusive education aims to allow all learners to achieve their full potential by providing good quality education to all in mainstream settings with special attention to learners at risk of exclusion and underachievement by actively seeking out to support them and responding flexibly to the circumstances and needs of all learners, including through individualised approaches, targeted support and cooperation with the families and local communities."

Paris Declaration on Promoting citizenship, and the common values of freedom, tolerance and non-discrimination through education (2015)

„The primary purpose of education is not only to develop knowledge, skills, competences and attitudes to embed fundamental values, but also to help young people – in close cooperation with parents and families – to become active, responsible, open-minded members of society.“
