

COP24·KATOWICE 2018
UNITED NATIONS CLIMATE CHANGE CONFERENCE

Aligning Finance with the Goals of the Paris Agreement

Wisla room
Wednesday, 12 December
16:45-18:15

Global society will only deliver on the commitments of the Paris Agreement if a new level of political ambition among governments is matched by an equal level of commitment and determination from the world's financial communities. Join us for a panel dialogue with high-level representatives from leading international organisations, governments and the private sector to discuss how governments and financial institutions can work together now on the transformative agenda needed to align financial flows with a low-emission, resilient future and effectively implement Article 2.1(c) of the Paris Agreement.

Speakers include:

Svenja Schulze, Minister of Environment, Germany

Carlos Manuel Rodríguez, Minister of Environment, Costa Rica

Angel Gurría, Secretary-General of the OECD

Satya S. Tripathi, Assistant Secretary-General, UN Environment Programme

Laura Tuck, Vice President of Sustainable Development, World Bank Group

Håvard Gulbrandsen, Managing Director, KLP Asset Management

Please note that attendance is for those that already hold
COP24 accreditation.

For more information on the event, contact:
ClimateFutures@oecd.org