- Miles Larbey, Acting Head of the Consumer Finance, Insurance and Pensions Division, OECD

11:15-11:40

Item 2. Developing and launching of novel financial literacy resources for financial education in Belarus

The National Bank of Belarus launched in September 2021 a novel textbook on financial literacy in schools. During this session they will present how they decided to develop a new textbook, how the topics were selected, the coordination work they did with stakeholders, the parties involved in the work, how teachers were engaged, and finally any lessons for peer who would like to go through a similar process.

- Yulia Sakovich, Head of the Financial Literacy Department, National Bank of the Republic of Belarus
- Svetlana Balydko, Consultant of Financial Literacy Department, National Bank of the Republic of Belarus

A brief Q/A session is planned during the presentation or at the end of this session.

11:40 – 12:10

Item 3. Developing novel financial literacy resources in the Russian Federation

Experts from the Russian Federation will share their experience in planning for the production of novel financial education resources, identifying and liaising with the relevant stakeholders, and preparing these for a targeted audience.

- Anna Gorelik, Deputy Director, Financial Literacy Center, NIFI / Ministry of Finance, the Russian Federation

A brief Q/A session is planned during the presentation or at the end of this session.

12:10 - 12:50

Item 4. Discussion and peer experiences

During the discussion, the peer learners are encouraged to comment on the presentations they heard and consider providing their own answers to the following questions:

- How to determine where are the key gaps in financial literacy and where novel resources are needed?
- How to identify and involve the key stakeholders in producing and launching novel resources?
- How to ensure that sufficient resources can support this type of work?
- What novel and innovative resources for financial literacy have you produced or can you imagine would be useful in your country?

A discussant, who is an international external expert on the topic, will react to the experiences shared and provide further inputs.

Moderated by: Kiril Kossev, Policy Analyst, Consumer Finance, Insurance and Pensions, OECD

- CIS peer learners
 - Discussant:
