Agencies in the Netherlands

- Are agencies successful?

European Championship 1988, Marco van Basten scored the decisive goal in the finals against Russia.

World Championship 2006, Marco van Basten planned to lead the Dutch team to the top.

- Successful for almost 20 years!

Organisation execution of public tasks

Public sector			Private sector
ministry	Part of a ministry	Public task with public authority	Public task with public authority	Public task without public authority
Regular directorates	agencies	NDPB under public law	NDPB under private law	Foundation, association, cooperation

The agency model has matured

Agencies: scale tips to plus side

More efficiency

Import role in emancipating policy execution

Business-like working and thinking
in public sector

The principal doesn't always take its role serious enough

Cash thinking dominates accrual
focus agencies

NDPB's: does scale tip to plus side?

Quality of service

Spirit of entrepreneurship

Reducing costs

Who is responsible?

Who is accountable to whom?

Too much freedom?

Current state of affairs

- Standstill in discussion: framework legislation is still being discussed in Parliament.
- NDPB's carry on exploring the boundaries of independence.
- Although agencies have matured Parliament remains critical (especially due to discussion of introduction accruals).

Trends

- Do agencies and NDPB's grow towards each other?

The Dutch (agencies) are successful!

Maybe even more successful than some coaches are ...

European Championship, 1988

World Championship, 20..?
