

Mr. José Alarcon Hernández

*Director General for Migration,
Ministry of Employment, Migration and Social Affairs, Spain*

Mr. José Alarcón Hernández is the Director General for Migrations, having the direct responsibility on the immigration and emigration policy at all the governmental levels, managing the international, European and national programs.

He holds a degree on Law (University Carlos III, Madrid 1996) and Economics studies. He has improved his knowledge, between others, as an expert in relations with the European Union (1997) and attending the Leadership Program for Public Management (IESE Business School, 2008).

He has a broad experience as a public and political advisor on different fields (public administration, environment, energy...) being and specialist on migration.