

Adrienne Harrington
Chief Executive
The Ludgate Hub- Cork,
Ireland

Adrienne took up the post of Chief Executive of the Ludgate Hub in Skibbereen in September 2017, leaving Dublin (Ireland's capital city) after 25 years to move to West Cork. Prior to that, she was responsible for digital and data protection policy in the Prime Minister's Office. As a civil servant for many years, Adrienne worked in a number of Government Departments, as well as being Chief Executive of the Psychological Society of Ireland for a number of years, and spending time in Namibia as a development worker with Voluntary Services Overseas (VSO).

Adrienne is also chair of the Irish government's South West Regional Enterprise Plan, appointed by the Minister for Business, Enterprise & Innovation.

Adrienne has a Doctorate in Governance from Queen's University Belfast, as well as a Masters in Business Studies from the University College Dublin (UCD) Smurfit Business School.