

María Emilia Undurraga Marimón
National Director
Office of Agricultural Studies and Policies
Ministry of Agriculture of Chile

Maria Emilia Undurraga is an Agronomist with a Major in Agricultural Economics of the Catholic University of Chile (PUC). She also holds a Master in Sociology (PUC) and a Master in International Development Policy from Duke University. Between 2011 and 2014, she worked at the Institute of Agricultural Development (INDAP), Ministry of Agriculture. In INDAP, she led the territorial programs that assist more than one hundred thousand Chilean farmers with technical and investment support. She was also Chilean delegate to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) on issues related to rural territorial policies. Until March 2018, she was an Associate Researcher and Part-time Professor at the Faculty of Agronomy and Forestry Engineering of the Catholic University of Chile and participated in several projects including a Strategic Territorial Pole.