

Ignacia Fernández.

Executive Director and Principal Researcher

Rimisp - Latin American Center for Rural Development.

PhD in Sociology, Master in Political Science. Specialist in public policy, social policy, decentralization and territorial development. Professor of the Master in Public Policy and Management at the University of Chile. She was Member of the Presidential Advisory Commission for Decentralization and Regional Development. Former adviser to the Budget Directorate of the Ministry of Finance and Head of the Politics and Studies Division at the Undersecretary of Regional Development.