- Started operations at MACC’s former headquarters in Kuala Lumpur on 1 December 2005.
- Officially launched by the honorable Prime Minister of Malaysia on 12 April 2007.
The Launching of Malaysia Anti-Corruption Academy
VISION

To be recognized and utilized as an anti-corruption center of excellence and source of support accessible to Malaysia as well as nations and organizations throughout the world committed in combating corruption.
MISSION

- To lead and inspire, through excellent training and research, the education and development of a corruption free community;
- To produce well trained anti-corruption officers with the necessary attitude, skills and knowledge to combat corruption locally and internationally; and
- To forge effective partnerships among the corruption combating agencies and other anti-corruption initiatives worldwide, with common objectives and resolve to act against corruption with the Academy as the capacity and capability building regional center.
OBJECTIVE

- To equip the anti corruption officers with the right attitude, skills and knowledge to effectively combat corruption through systematic and competent training programmes; and

- To harness international resources and enhance co-operation for an integrated effort to fight corruption for the good of the international community.

Malaysia Anti-Corruption Academy (MACA)
Training and course modules are developed by the Curriculum Development Committee.

For international courses, experts in the fields concerned are engaged to design and develop the modules.

Courses for agencies outside MACC, local or international, the modules are tailor made to their needs.
THE WAY FORWARD

- In consonant with our goals and aspirations to be the International Anti-Corruption Training Centre in the Asia-Pacific region, a total of 9 courses are offered to the international participants for the year 2009.

- Advanced courses are offered in the fields of investigation, intelligence, law and prosecution, and prevention.

- It is our hope that the courses offered would meet the needs and requirements of anti-corruption officers that would mould them to be multi-skilled and versatile professionals.

CONCLUSION

- MACA does not claim to be an expert in fighting corruption.

- It is our hope that the international community recognizes MACA as a common platform where anti-corruption knowledge could be disseminated, new skills learned and experience shared.

- The pursuit of knowledge is a never ending process. It is our pleasure to invite and encourage you, the members of ADB-OECD, to forge effective partnership with MACA as an anti-corruption capacity and capability building regional center.
THANK YOU
