IV. COMMENTS & SUGGESTIONS

As the above survey results show that the majority of participants were very satisfied with the meeting. Still, participants did make some comments which were mostly relating to time and organisational issues. The most frequently mentioned comment was on the distribution of background documents. Even though all the background documents had been made available in advance of the event on the OECD website [<http://www.oecd.org/trade/aftdialogue2008>], many participants were evidently not aware of this fact. For future events, the OECD will improve its communication and ensure that all participants are properly informed about how and where to access relevant documents and information.
