Taxing Wages - The United States

Tax on labour income

The tax wedge is a measure of the tax on labour income, which includes the tax paid by both the employee and the employer.

TAX WEDGE ON LABOUR INCOME

\text{Tax wedge} = \left( \frac{\text{Personal income tax} + \text{employee and employer social security contributions (SSCs)}}{\text{Total labour costs (gross wages + employer SSCs)}} \right) - \text{Family Benefits}

Single worker

The tax wedge for the average single worker in the United States increased by 0.2 percentage points from 29.6 in 2018 to 29.8 in 2019.

The OECD average tax wedge in 2019 was 36.0 (2018, 36.1). In 2019 the United States had the 29th lowest tax wedge among the 36 OECD member countries, occupying the same position in 2018.

In the United States, income tax and employer social security contributions combine to account for 76% of the total tax wedge, compared with 76% of the total OECD average tax wedge.

Average tax wedge: average single worker, no children

The tax wedge for a worker with children may be lower than for a worker on the same income without children, since most OECD countries provide benefits to families with children through cash transfers and preferential tax provisions.

The United States had the 29th lowest tax wedge in the OECD for an average married worker with two children at 18.8% in 2019, which compares with the OECD average of 26.4%. The country occupied the same position in 2018.

Child related benefits and tax provisions tend to reduce the tax wedge for workers with children compared with the average single worker.

In the United States in 2019, this reduction (10.9 percentage points) was greater than the OECD average (9.6 percentage points).

Average tax wedge: One-earner married couple at average earnings, 2 children
